

Snow Science at Bixby

Last week Bixby got a visit from Snow Scientist Noah Molotch. In addition to being Stella (1st) and Darwin's (4th) dad, he teaches and researches at CU about snow, ice and other hydrological processes.

Students got to view snowflakes using special magnifiers that gave them a close up view of their delicate structures. They learned about and compared the density of water vs snow and used scientific tools to take measurements of the snow on the ground.

Thank you to Noah for sharing his passion and knowledge with our students!
